

How to Make Recycled Paper

You will need:

- Old paper (cut into strips)
- Bowl
- Warm Water
- Spoon
- Cornflour
- Sieve or colander
- Foil
- Old newspaper
- Heavy books

Cut or rip your old paper into strips and place in the bowl.

Cover the paper with warm water and leave until soft and mushy, stirring occasionally (this could take several hours).

Add a few tablespoons of cornflour.

If you would like to colour your paper, add poster paint or food colouring after step three.

When the paper is soft and mushy, pour it into a sieve or colander and strain out the excess water over a sink.

On a table, lay out some old newspaper, then lay some foil on top.

Spread the paper pulp out onto the foil, making sure there are no holes.

Don't forget to recycle the foil and newspaper you use during this activity!

Place another sheet of foil and some heavy books on top to flatten the paper out.

After a short time, remove the books and top layer of foil and leave the recycled paper to dry overnight.

When dry, peel the bottom layer of foil off and your recycled paper is ready to use!
